Taking Myrbetriq safely

mirabegron · once-daily tablet · overactive bladder

3 MISTAKES TO AVOID

1 Skipping blood pressure checks
Myrbetriq can raise blood pressure; not recommended if yours is very high and uncontrolled.

2 Crushing, chewing, or splitting it
Swallow it whole, with water, with or without food. It is extended-release.

3 Not mentioning digoxin
Myrbetriq can raise digoxin levels and the levels of other narrow-dose medicines.

How to take it

- Swallow whole, with water, with or without food. Do not crush, chew, or split it.
- Taken once a day, every day.

Missed a dose?

- Within 12 hours: take it when you remember. After 12 hours: skip it, take your next dose at the usual time. Never take 2 doses at once.

How long it takes

- Studies measured results over 12 weeks. Your doctor may raise your dose after 4 to 8 weeks if needed. Do not stop on your own; tell your doctor if you do not feel a change.

Tell your pharmacist about

- Digoxin or other narrow-dose medicines: Myrbetriq can raise their levels.

IMPORTANT
Before you start: tell your doctor about kidney or liver problems (severe kidney or moderate liver problems cap the dose at 25 mg a day; not recommended for kidney failure, dialysis, or severe liver problems), and do not take it if you're allergic to mirabegron.

Call your doctor if you notice

- Can't urinate, or urinate only a little, especially with a blocked bladder or another overactive bladder medicine
- Blood pressure readings that are high or rising

EMERGENCY: CALL 911
Swelling of the face, lips, tongue, or throat: this can happen even after the first dose. Stop Myrbetriq and get medical help right away.

Good to know

Get your blood pressure checked regularly while taking Myrbetriq, especially if you already have high blood pressure.
